From "Night of the Scorpion" by Nissim Ezekiel

May the poison purify your flesh

of desire, and your spirit of ambition,

they said, and they sat around

on the floor with my mother in the centre,

the peace of understanding on each face.

More candles, more lanterns, more neighbours,

more insects, and the endless rain.

My mother twisted through and through,

groaning on a mat.

My father, sceptic, rationalist,

trying every curse and blessing,

powder, mixture, herb and hybrid.

He even poured a little paraffin

upon the bitten toe and put a match to it.

I watched the flame feeding on my mother.

I watched the holy man perform his rites to tame the poison with an incantation.

After twenty hours

it lost its sting

My mother only said

Thank God the scorpion picked on me

And spared my children.

6. Prepare a lesson plan to teach Infinitive and Gerund with the passage given below:

Teresa's friend Bernardo is gaining weight. She wanted him to quit eating fast food. He agreed to start eating healthily. A few weeks passed. Teresa expected Bernardo to lose weight, but nothing changed. She noticed that sometimes he would smell like hamburgers. She started to suspect that he had broken his promise to eat well.

One day, she followed him home from work. She saw him pass by McDonalds, but then he stopped walking. He hesitated to go in, but he finally did. After a few minutes, she decided to follow him in. She caught him eating a Big Mac. She attempted to wrestle it from him, but she couldn't manage to get it out of his greasy hands. He tried to push her away, but he accidentally hit her in the face. Naturally, she got angry. He said that he didn't mean to hit her, but she started screaming.
